Dear Graduates:

If, in a reminiscent mood, you think back to the last term you spent at Lincoln, you may recall that at one of the assemblies I was privileged to speak to you on "What we expect Lincoln graduates to be."

In that talk there were four hopes to which I gave expression. I hoped, in the first place, that as a result of all your studies in science, mathematics, languages and history, you had learned to think straight.

Second, having for many years seen success come to the industrious and failure to the lazy, that you had learned to work hard.

Thirdly, having engaged in various athletic and extra-curricular contests wherein sportsmanship and honesty counted far more than hollow victories won through chicanery, that you had learned to play fair.

And lastly, since throughout your schooling the importance of showing appreciation, loyalty and reverence has been stressed, that you had learned to love much.

If your Alma Mater has taught you to think straight, to work hard, to play fair and love much, it has given you a wonderful foundation for a superstructure of successful living.

LINCOLN

VALEDICTORY •

When voices of others sing Alma Mater and laughter of others resound in Lincoln's halls, we will look back, without regret, on our high school days. They have not only been days of study but days of pleasure. Who can ever be forgetful of the three most momentous occasions in our school career? Remember class night, the thrill of our Senior Prom, and how, with hearts beating high and heads lifted proudly, we marched, for the last time as a class, at our graduation. Many of us will relive those moments again and again.

While we are thinking of all Lincoln has meant to us we must not forget to include our friends. Friendships are made and friendships are severed; but there is no friendship as fine or as lasting as that one made at school. Our interests may change but there always will be a common bond of fellowship between classmates.

We are all starting out on devious journeys with the expectations of attaining some distant goal. Some of us will find the task more difficult than we anticipated, but those, who by courage and determination, will have persevered will ever be grateful to Lincoln High School for an excellent start in life and will look up to Lincoln, the man, as an inspiration.

As the sun sets on our high school days we climb to the pinnacle of the mountain of hope and sorrowfully gaze down at the past. Slowly, we look up and with shining eyes await the birth of a new day.

ENVOI •

Ah, were you and I empowered
To stem the swiftly flowing tide of Time
Would we not taste more of the fruit that's flowered
On Wisdom's tree—and sip its juice sublime?

The lessons that the school books fail to tell;
To us the master's magic word has told
The wisdom and the beauty we may hold
Within our grasp—if we but live life well.

Some who through these portals pass, to fame aspire
While others will in lowly cares delight.
Yet in each heart there glows the brightly kindled fire
To seek a lofty life—to fight the noble fight.

TEACHER, MAY I? •

My Dear Miss Or Mr. Teacher:

School is a compact between pupil and teacher. You give homework, we do it; you know, fifty-fifty business. In our graduating class there are twelve senior prefects or approximately one-fortieth the number of students. One-fortieth of eighty pages in this book should be about teachers, or in other words—two pages. Since this is the only way we know of getting even with the teachers we'll give them only one. Now to revenge—for revenge is sweet.

Did you ever see:—

Mr. Mac Ball stepping on his partners toes at a dance?
Mr. Burger lose a handball game?
Mr. Glassman getting angry?
Mr. E. Bernstien looking official?
Mr. Swahn spoiling a negative?
Mrs. Malkin whistling in the hall?
Mrs. Emerson pricking her finger with a needle?
Mr. Friend painting a bent line?
Mr. Hirschberg missing up on a puzzle?
Mr. Siegel without tickets to sell?
Mr. White reading Liberty?
Mr. Gellender blowing a fuse?
Dean Krane cutting classes?
Mr. Pargot scolding?
Mr. Levine without trigonometry homework?
Mr. Mantinband without a folder?
Mr. Marks without the "Golden Book"?
Miss Beckman without a smile?
Mr. Lapedos without some sort of a joke?
Dr. Hohn not advising or helping a student?
Mr. Shanholt walking slowly?
Miss Randall unobliging?
Miss Cohen free for a moment?
Mr. Zinman without a typist or a secretary in his office?
Mr. Wilbert jay-walking?
Mr. Idelson discussing the Brooklyn's chances?
Dr. Doyle not telling about his European travels or college days?
Miss Morrison firing an actor for coming when the rehearsal is over?
Mr. Yates out of a miles distance from school?

Well we never did.

Teachers—Our advice is: treat the kiddies nicely or you'll get in the Senior Year Book. Look what we did this term.

(Signed—Unknown for his health's sake.)

CLASS WILL •

We, the Class of June 1932 of the Abraham Lincoln High School, having no illusions as to our saneness of mind and soundness of body and realizing the imminence of the end of our high school careers do hereby declare this document our last will and testament and hereby revoke all previous wills and testaments made by us. (This includes the statement that we WILL never be able to pass those Regents, made June 1.)

Item I. In order to form a more perfect—no, what are we saying—in order to provide for executors for this will we will allow some of our number to remain behind for six more months and see that every bequest is received intact.

Item II. To Lincoln High we leave—but, we forgot, we are leaving Lincoln High and what more magnificent legacy could anyone receive.

Item III. To the student body we leave their full quota of holidays, weekends and other arbitrarily taken vacations from school.

Item IV. To our beloved faculty we leave a surely pleasant memory of the Class of June, 1932, in which so many geniuses, politicians, talented and other abnormal and subnormal specimens of high school students were found. We also leave them the certainty that the likes of us will never be equaled. In What? Who knows?

Item V. To the incoming horde of Freshies we leave this advice: Put not your faith in Seniors for gym-spots, elevator passes; and assembly seats are not for sale. Never run up to the sixth floor for a person who looks like a teacher — it's probably a Senior who took a shave and besides there's no sixth floor — so there!

Item VI. Sophomores we consider as having reached the cynical age and we would cut them off with a shilling but for the fact that we haven't got a shilling!

Item VII. To the Juniors we leave the honor of taking our place as Seniors.

Item VIII. To Service "Squadders" we leave these words: Never ask young girls without books for passes—they're probably the latest additions to the English staff.

Item IX. To all those who did not receive a bequest in the foregoing we leave the consolation that to be ignored by us is no mean distinction. "Not to know me is to argue yourself unknown."

The Senior Class of June 1932.

HALL OF FAME •

GEORGE AREZZO

In his few terms at Lincoln, George Arezzo has had a brilliant political career. After serving for two terms as Vice-President of the G. O., George was elected President of the G. O. This term he is serving in capacity of the Arista Leader. But George has not only entered politics. He is an Associate Editor of the Log and is also on the Editorial staff of the Landmark and the Handbook. As President of the President's Council he has also rendered excellent service. He is also a member of the Senior and Executive Councils and the Finance Committee.

ANITA CHASAN

Anita Chasan is now serving in the capacity of Editor-in-Chief of the Log. Aside from her journalistic endeavors, she has had some political experience, having attained the offices of both Secretary and Vice-President of the G. O. She is a member of the Senior Council, Class Night Committee, and also has served in the capacity of one of the editors of the Lincoln Handbook.

HYMAN DEITCH

Hy Deitch—Varsity Basketball and Varsity Football—a two sports man. On the Basketball team he has served as Captain. He represents athletically inclined boys as president of the Boys Athletic Committee. Hy has starred in Lincoln's various encounters with many other schools. To top it all, Hy is a member of the Executive Council.

EDITH GOLDKIND

Arista plus Art plus Literature equal Edith Goldkind. Edith is on the Landmark Art Staff, and on the Cargoes staff. She's also a member of the Class Night and Gift Committee. In Athletics she is above par for she is in the Kallista. Sketch and Story Clubs complete the rest of the tale.

JACK GOLDMAN

To begin with, he's in the Arista, and then he's also Vice-President of the Senior Class. In clubs he holds the honor of being president of the Barristers and the Dollars and Sense Club. He's tried at Journalism by editing the "Jury Box". His spare time he spends on the Class Night Committee and assisting Mr. Wilbert, Mr. Josephs, and Mr. Friend.

CHARLES HIRSCH

Charles gets his niche in the Hall of Fame by attaining the office of President of the Senior Class of June 1932. Of course Charles has been president of the sixth and seventh grades. Besides these high positions he has found time to be on the Football team, Executive Council and Program Committee. He also aided Mrs. Malkin and Mr. Wilson.

PEARL JOLLES

Pearl Jolles has become one of the outstanding seniors through her wonderful singing. She is president of the Glee Club and has participated as a soloist at many assemblies. She is a member of the Arista and is also Secretary to Mrs. Batchker. In politics, she has attained the office of Secretary of the Senior Class. Pearl is also a member of the Latin and French Clubs.

IRVING KAPLOWITZ

Have you ever received a notice signed I. K.? Yes, it was Irving Kaplowitz who sent it to you in his capacity of Business Manager of the Landmark. Not only is Irving an Arista man but he has officiated as President of the Library Squad. His other services have encompassed the Log and the presidentship of the Service Council. Yes, that's what Irving's made of.

LILLIAN KRASILOVSKY

Lillian Krasilovsky culminated her brief but varied career at Lincoln by being elected Girl Leader of the Arista. Besides membership in the Honor society for two terms, Lillian was Secretary to Dr. Hohn and Mrs. Malkin, member of the Athletic Council and Secretary of the Riding Club. She has also been a member of the Latin Club for four terms.

LEONARD J. LEADER

He got in here because he's Co-Editor-in-Chief of the Landmark, Associate Editor of the Log, Editor-in-Chief of the Fog, Editor of the Handbook. Arista is another reason for his entrance into this hall. Even then he managed to be Secretary of the Arista and the Current Events Club, not to forget the team. The Junior Council and Senior Council also held his attention—when they took pictures. P. S. He's El Jay El.

DOROTHY McBRIDE

Dorothy McBride stands out as the girl athlete supreme. There is no activity of girls sport which Dotty has not honored with her cooperation. Swimming, punchball, basketball, hockey, volley ball, and ad infinitum. President of the G. A. A. and member of the Kallista are samples of other activities of Miss McBride.

GEORGE MORGULIS

He's just one grand musician. Who plays the violin? Why it's George of course. Who is always at the Parent-Teachers' Association meeting? Why it's George of course. Who has been Concertmaster of the School Orchestra? Who's been on the School String Quartette? Why, George Morgulis naturally is the one.

SYLVIA MOSKOWITZ

Another girl who has won fame in the line of service is Sylvia Moskowitz. At the beginning of her high school career she devoted herself entirely to the Service Squad and Cutting Squad. Then she entered the field of Journalism and now, besides being Secretary to the Dean of Girls, a member of the Senior Council, Sylvia is Co-Editor-in-Chief of the Landmark and Associate Editor of the Log.

SEYMOUR RABINOWITZ

Besides being an Art Editor of the Log, Cargoes, and the Landmark, Seymour Rabinowitz has been president of the Art Studio and the Block Print Club, secretary of the Sketch Club and member of the Modeling Club. In addition, Rabinowitz won a silver loving cup by capturing first place in the Baseball Poster Contest. He was the designer of our service pins. He also won the medal for the Graphic Arts Class.

CHARLES PITEGOFF

Charley's one of those fellows who does lots of work and does not talk about it. At eight or nine o'clock one can always find Charles at the printer's doing his bit to put out the Log in his capacity of Sports Editor. His literary talents also have been placed to good use in the Landmark and the Handbook. He is also the recipient of the Harvard Memorial Prize for character. By the way, he's in the Arista.

DAVID SCHWARTZ

Dave has the honor of being on all four Lincoln publications. He is an Associate Editor of the Log, Literary Editor of Cargoes and he is on the Landmark Literary Staff. He is a member of the Commencement Committee and he also helped edit the Handbook.

NAT SUPER

We nominate Nat for the Hall of Fame because he's an artist, because he's not temperamental, because he's been an Art Editor of every publication that needed Art Editing, because he's one of God's Chosen People, because — . Well, if these aren't reasons enough there are his personality, his being so likable, and his ability to look dignified carrying a 72 by 72 portfolio.

ESTHER SWERDLOFF

Sure she's here, and why not? Unless Arista means nothing to you, or Business Staff of the Landmark has no value. But let us get at the truth—Esther Swerdloff is here because she has always made herself handy; helping Mr. Zinman for three terms, acting as his secretary in the summer, helping in the Eco office, and writing minutes in the Arista when the secretaries were absent. Senior Council, Dollars and Sense Club, Lincoln Players, History Club and G. A. A. all add to making Essie the "Ideal Lincoln Girl".

OUR FUTURE •

Forty-eight moons have we learned and observed, forty-eight moons have we studied of strange customs and places, forty-eight moons have we associated with classmates, teachers and text books, but now we start the new adventure.

Some will try their chances in business and some will go on in the quest for learning. Lincoln students will fill offices, factories, and university halls. The five hundred members of our class will go to many different places. The world awaits us not with open hands as many would believe. No—we must struggle to secure that recognition which we feel we deserve. Successes are not made by mere fancy; careers are the result of work. We—we are the ones who captain our fate.

Ever since we were Freshmen we have pondered over the question—"In what field of endeavor shall we enter?" Now this question answered, we must chart a ship.

The future with the best part of our lives lies before us. Our ambitions and high hopes are to be fulfilled in the future. We must go out into the world, out into life's arena, out to win our fortune and to conquer what is rightly ours.

CLASS PROPHECY •

Come ye Lincolnite, the light
Shines alone on you tonight.
What fortune in comic mood's forseen
Is magically flashed on Life's bright screen.

The vast theatre is in darkness. Except for a few gaspy coughs here and there in the audience silence reigns throughout. Suddenly a vision is flashed on the screen—a voice issues through the velvety darkness; the camera is unreeling the news of the day.

"Here you see, ladies and gentlemen, the foremost show at Coney Island. The gentleman in silk hat and evening clothes whining to the milling throng is none other then David Schwartz"—the suave voice continues. "And now we are privileged to view the office of the great neck-tie king, Dave Blutreich. That pert young secretary, smiling rather winningly at the employer bears a remarkable resemblance to Esther Swerdloff.

"Here is Mr. Jack Litwack, the man who made his fortune selling reducing apparatus. The young lady taking dictation from him is Rose Balinson; and in the outer office you can see Leah Roth and Terry Steinfeld absorbed in True Confessions—and, ah, what a brilliant throng we have here." Senator Leonard Leader, advanced twenty years and five inches, is evidently persuading his associates that the "Power of the Press" must be abolished. Senator Irving Kaplowitz is among those getting soup on their vests. "Here, dear audience, we have a den of pulchritude; the teaching staff of the "Old Fashioned Beauty Culture School" is having a celebration. Edith Weingarten, Jack Goldman, Libby Steinberg, and Edythe Shapiro are some former Lincolnites expounding beauty in the world." The gala scene fades from the screen, the tireless voice takes up the broken thread. A glass door bearing the inscription, Ella Gerber, Bob Sharon and Bert Rothschild, High Class Dramatic Instruction, Professional Training, appears on the screen for an enlightening instant and vanishes.

Another moment, another scene, the voice goes on—"the gentleman in the garb of physician is Dr. Murray Mishalow, and the anxious mother of the child he is attending is the former Helen Schlank, an ex-Lincolnite patronizing an old schoolmate."

The office of a city newspaper is next unreeled. Helen Robinson, sedate and middle-aged is shown writing a column having the caption. "How to get your man"—ah, a successful Lincolnite—the crooning gentleman at the mike is Hy Rosen. The soft tones of an organ swell forth from the screen showing George Arezzo. Arezzo at last realized his dreams, the interpreter informs the audience; while the lavish setting of the Metropolitan Opera House stage is presented on the asbestos. All too soon we are shown the interior of a gym, which old and peeling as it may be is recognizable as the girls gym of Abraham Lincoln High School. The red-haired teacher diligently doing taps on the platform bears an unmistakable likeness to Ruth Reiser gone "Savage". Again the voice sounds through the playhouse. "The last scene of the night, my friends, take us forward a good many years—the gray-haired, and feeble lady you see writing in the dim light of her garrett is Ruth Miller (completing, we hope) her great American novel. The screen fades into blackness, the voice trails off into silence, and the crowd files out leaving the theatre empty and desolate—alone with its memories.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

Will you go with us? We have sport in hand.—Shakespeare

The fairer half of the class of June '32 points with pride to its accomplishments in the various fields of athletic endeavor. Lincoln's Amazons have been encouraged by the motto, "A sport for every girl, and a girl in every sport." As a result of the rapid growth of the Girls' Athletic Association, due, in no small measure, to the efforts to the class of '32, Lincoln has taken many steps toward the realization of this ideal goal.

In the first six months of Lincoln's existence, the class basketball team, with Dorothy McBride as Captain, and the class punchball team, led by Doris Dicker, scored many victories. The first major "Ls" were received by Dorothy McBride and Doris Dicker, in recognition of their outstanding leadership in the field of sports. A term later, Belle Diamond and Ruth Reiser were similarly honored.

In February 1931, Lincoln's first honorary athletic society, the Kallista, was established under the guidance of the girls' Health Education department, with Miss Stewart as faculty adviser. The majority of the charter members are now being graduated. Among them may be found Belle Diamond, Doris Dicker, Dorothy McBride, Edith Goldkind, Shirley Jacobs, Helen Kirsten, and Connie Reimer. Many other athletes, such as Terry Steinfeld, Leona Fain, Ethel Leveene, Marie Pica, Ruth Reiser, Julia Lotito, Rachel Charson, Eugena Matta, Selma Stak, were rewarded at a later date by membership in the Kallista.

In the present term the position of captain of the eighth term punchball team is occupied by Doris Dicker, while in basketball the leaders of the three teams of graduates are Ruth Reiser, Sylvia Batzes, and Eva Smulowitz.

Swimming and diving, two most interesting sports, claim as their representatives Natalie Goldstein, Doris Dicker, and Dorothy McBride.

The girls of '32 have left an everlasting monument to Lincoln athletics in the form of a sound foundation for the Girl's Athletic Association.

LANDMARK

BOYS' ATHLETICS •

In their third term of existence the athletic aggregations of Abraham Lincoln High School have compiled records that compare more than favorably with older and more experienced schools. Seniors in most cases were the leading factors of their various teams successes.

Competing in their first P.S.A.L. campaign the basketball squad placed fourth, heading such teams as Brooklyn Tech, Erasmus and Manual. Lou Greenstein and Hy Deitch, graduates, were two mainstays who proved to be of unlimited value to Coach Kroff. Greenstein was captain and center of his team and received the next highest points for Lincoln. Deitch, last year's leader, has been the spark plug of the quintet in his two years of varsity playing. The team's main feat during the season was its victory over Tilden, the Brooklyn champions.

The Rifle outfit always among the top notchers, placed second in this term's one hundred foot championship, Robert Brandeis, senior captain, proved to be one of the steadiest men of his squad. A long list of ineligibilities ruined the nimrods' chances of capturing first honors. Other seniors who were varsity rifle men were Schillinger and Rosenberg. Rifle and Isidore Graber, a seventh termer, are synonymous in Lincoln.

The Lincoln swimming team gave a great surprise to other league contestants by winning third place in P.S.A.L. competition. The leading luminary of the natators was Al Goldberg, diver, who outclassed all rivals in this event. Eighth termers who aided the Neptunes by gaining many a point are Bob Baron, Co-diver with Goldberg and Jack Fischer breast stroke specialist.

Although producing a mediocre record, the Blue and Gray baseball nine contained members of high calibre who deserved a better fate. Among these are Joe Coppo, captain, pitcher, and first baseman. His pitching has been the silver lining in his team's many defeats. Contrary to most pitchers, Coppo packs a wallop for which he is feared by other high school moundsmen. Herman Goldstein, last year's leader, has been the outstanding batter of the last two campaigns. Though small of stature he has in his possession a batting average which rates among the best in this city. Lester Barlin, regular backstop, although not a flashy type of player has loaned a steady hand to the pitchers.

At the present writing, the Lincoln Fencers are situated in second place behind Madison. This success is due mainly to Captain Phil Wells who placed fourth in the preceding year's city championship. He has lost but three matches during the present semester and is one of the leaders in the present contest. He has been well assisted by Milton Prussin, Jacob Cohen, and Bob Sharron.

Tennis, a sport little publicized, is headed in Lincoln by Harold Unterberg, experienced racquet wielder. Lester Maslow another graduate has held down first singles position for two years and has won a majority of them. Jack Litwack has served as manager for the past year.

Lincoln's team will surely miss such men as these seniors who are graduating.

CLUBS–OF THEE I SING •

"There are some who eat to live and others who live to eat". In this manner does an old adage go. Yet we may say in a similar vein—"There are some who come to clubs because they go to school and others who go to school because they come to clubs". Abraham Lincoln High School can challenge any school in quality and quantity of clubs. On all fronts the club activities of Lincoln High march on.

On the cultural front we have Miss Fornoni standing out with her successful Euterpe chorus and her many Glee Clubs. In charge of the Girls Glee Club is Miss Fornoni. Miss Feingold has charge of the Boys Glee Club.

What words of praise can we offer to Mr. Friend and his Art Squad, for are not the school corridors witnesses to their ability.

Front two is not at all—all quiet—for it is the field of the literati. Such words as Log, Cargoes, Landmark, Fog and Handbook dazzle one's vision. If in anything does our school excel it is in the publication whirl. The Cargoes is that artistic magazine which is full of articles, playlets and poems supplied by the students who are members of the Short Story club guided by Mr. Morris White. In this as well as in all other publications Mr. Friend's Artist Squad are responsible. About the Landmark—well just look around and notice carefully.

All other literary publications are fostered by Mr. Burger. Yes—Mr. Burger is the man who has guided the Log through four terms of news gathering, is the man who has put out, with aid of his staff, two excellent issues of the Handbook; and Mr. Burger with his select group has tried to amuse Lincolnites with a very foggy Fog.

On the political front we hear rumblings of the History Club under Miss Sara Garret's guidance, of the Barristers under the guidance of Mr. Joseph, and not to forget the Dollars and Sense Club under Mrs. Stein.
Language clubs are firm fighters on the lingual front. Die Deutsche Verein, Le Cercle Francais, Spanish Club, Pan-American Club, Societas Romanas, and the Italian Club interest many students who wish to practice what they learn in their Language class. These clubs are guided respectively by such faculty members as Mr. Bernard, Miss Sandal, Miss Localio, Mr. Seaver, Mr. Greene and Miss Della Chiesa.
Passing on to the sciences of life we find a Radio Club under Mr. Gellender, the Alps (Abraham Lincoln Physics Society, guided by Mr. Idelson), and Microscopy Club with Miss Sobel at its head. The Lincoln Botanists are organized under Mrs. Wolfe.
It grieves us that we could only mention a part of Lincoln's numerous clubs but our space is limited and all we can says is—Lincoln High, We, the Senior class of June 1932 salute you and your clubs.

CLASS NIGHT •

It was with a tremendous feeling of mingled awe and wonder that we awaited the rising of the curtain to reveal to us a realm of mystery and enchantment. A hush pervaded the audience. Charles Hirsch, president of the Senior Class, welcomed the guests to this gathering. Jimmy Tietelbaum gave the gifts.
"The Monkey's Paw" was presented by the Senior Class' most versatile actors and actresses. The play is a sterling thriller dealing with the supernatural. In several inklings the audience is impressed with the fact that the paw brings nothing but misfortune to those who unhappily possess it. This is precisely what occurs to the White family. Great commendation is due the fine cast of characters consisting of Robert Sharron, Ella Gerber, Seymour Senderoff, Norman Rotter, and Nat Brenner. Mrs. Phillips directed the play.
The second part of the program was the presentation of gifts to senior celebrities. The gifts added the necessary gusto to a very enjoyable evening. Since they were very well chosen, they kept the spectators laughing throughout.
To lift us from this desperate atmosphere, a mystery-comedy "The Man in the Bowler Hat" was presented. The story revolved around the lost Rajah's ruby which is naturally desired by the villain. The cast was headed by Leo Rifkin, Lauretta Bobbinger, Evelyne Gritzman, Robert Berger, and Bert Rothschild. Miss Morrison lent her fine managing ability to produce this play. In collaboration with her was Mr. Yates who gave the scenic touches to this play and the other. Jack Goldman, Business Manager and Esther Swerdloff, Assistant Business Manager helped make this play a success.
The program was excellent and reflected fully the remarkable ingenuity of the Senior class.

"Long may her popularity and name wave on high."
Edward.
